

Zhuhai Attractiveness Report
The Pearl Sea
珠海

Zhuhai is the name of a city, and Special Economic Zone (SEZ), in Guangdong Province, China.

The name means Pearl Sea, because Zhuhai is where the Pearl River (珠江; Zhūjiāng) flows into the South Sea (南海 Nánhǎi).

Sub-Tropical Weather

Temperature varies between 10 °C in winter (Dec to Feb) to a hot and humid 35 °C in summer (Jun to Sep). It has a humid subtropical climate affected by East Asian Monsoon and moderated by the South China Sea.

Romantic Zhuhai

Zhuhai is known for its beautiful long coastline, waving palm trees, open spaces, low population density, and its many islands;

Zhuhai's nicknames

the city for lovers
the city of a hundred islands.

Where is Zhuhai?

Proximity to HK, Macau and Chinese cities

- Ferries (1 hour) to HK and Shenzhen
- Walk to Macau
- Light Rail (2010) or Bus to Guangzhou along JingZhuGaoSu

Located in the Pearl River Delta, Zhuhai borders Jiangmen to the northwest, Zhongshan to the north, and former Portuguese colony Macau to the south.

By sea, former British colony Hong Kong and Shenzhen are just across the bay to the east.

The provincial capital Guangzhou is about 150 km to the north.

High Accessibility

Walk

Bus

New Guangzhou-Zhuhai Railway

Ferry

Flight

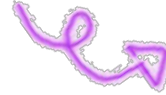

Familiar Languages Spoken

Mandarin is the Lingua Franca

Cantonese is the indigenous language

English not widely used, only for certain people especially youths and educators

Reasonable Cost of Living

Accommodation
(<S$100/night 4-star hotels)

Local delicacies (S$2/each abalone)

Shopping

Public Transportation

Attractions

•New Yuan Ming Palace, modeled after Yuan Ming Yuan in Beijing

•Jintai Buddhist Temple, built at the end of the Song Dynasty is over 1,000 years old

•Fisher Girl Statue

•Lovers' Road

•Over 100 Islands for Wildlife, Diving, and Seafoods

Attractions

Pearl Land (Amusement Park)

Imperial (Yu Wenquan) Hot Springs Resort in Doumen, the first Japanese outdoor garden-style hot springs resort in China, with over 20 kinds of hot springs.

Food

Zhuhai is famous for its Seafood

Wanzai has a Seafood Street where you can select live seafood by yourself with own cooking methods. The food is fresh, tasty with reasonable prices.

Halal Food

Halal restaurants, usually from the region of XinJiang. Commonly available in most parts of Zhuhai.

Clean, green, unpolluted city

Zhuhai is one of China's cleanest and prettiest cities, and received numerous accolades for its excellent ecological development efforts.

In 1998, it was awarded the International Award for Best Practices in Improving Living Environment by the United Nations Center for Human Settlements.

It is agreed to be one of the best cities in China to retire in.